

FEDIR PEREVALA, 9 years old

Kyiv City

and food and water ran out. As soon as the opportunity arose to leave, they immediately went to friends in Vinnytsia. But when they saw that the Russian occupiers had bombed the airport there, they decided to go abroad.

Now the family is in Spain, but all of Fedor's thoughts are dedicated to Ukraine: "We dream of returning to our home, to Kyiv. I believe that the war will end soon and Ukraine will win! "

Fedir looked at the crowd of people from the window on the eighth floor. They ran like little ants before the rain, helpless and worried... The parents collected what they needed most, and they went to their families in the Zhytomyr region. They thought it would be safer there, but they were trapped like a bird in a cage.

Enemy fighters attacked from all sides. Hostilities began. On February 26, Zhytomyr Region was blocked for 8 days. There was almost no connection,

For reference

Family:

Dad – Igor Perevala, electrical engineer, 43 years old; mother – Svetlana Chaurova, marketer, event manager, 40 years old; daughter – Anna Perevala, schoolgirl, 14 years old; son – Fedor Perevala, schoolboy, 9 years old.